3 items worth £1,000 or more each. Home contents policies usually only cover any single item up to a set limit unless it is listed ("specified") on the policy. Page 2 lists these items with the details insurers ask for: photo, identification, grade and certificate number, and value.

Prices move. We recommend re-valuing every three months, and before renewing your policy. This is an estimate of market value from public sales and marketplace data, not a certified appraisal. Unofficial; not affiliated with Nintendo, Creatures, GAME FREAK or The Pokémon Company.

Items to list individually

Each item below is worth at least your single-item limit of £1,000. Send this page to your insurer when asking for them to be specified on your policy.

How this was valued

Identification

Each card was identified from your collection export or photos and matched to the TCGdex card database by name, collector number and set. Every match was checked by a person before this report was issued.

Market prices

For each card we took every available price from these sources, converted to pounds:

- PriceCharting: recent completed eBay sales.
- TCGplayer: US marketplace price.
- Cardmarket: European marketplace trend.

The value shown is the middle of those prices, and the range runs from the lowest to the highest. Where only one source had a price, the range is that single price.

Condition

Market prices describe a near-mint copy. Ungraded cards in lower condition are valued at a share of that price:

NM	Near Mint	100%
LP	Lightly Played	80%
MP	Moderately Played	60%
HP	Heavily Played	40%
DMG	Damaged	25%

Graded cards

Graded (slabbed) cards are valued from sold prices for that grade only, never from ungraded prices. The grader and certificate number are listed so they can be checked on the grading company's website.

Currency and date

Prices were collected on 29 October 2026. US and EU prices were converted at $1 = £0.79 and €1 = £0.85, unless the source published its own rate on the day.

Single-item limit

Items are compared one copy at a time against the £1,000 single-item limit you gave us. Check your policy wording: some insurers treat a set or a run of cards as one item.

This report is an estimate of market value at the date shown, based on public sales and marketplace data. It is not a certified appraisal, and it is not insurance or financial advice.
